ALABAMA COLLEGE
THE STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN
MONTVALLO, ALABAMA

Students -

It is a wonderful privilege indeed to be allowed to share in the experience of college life with hundreds of you. We college staff people prize the opportunity you afford us for keeping our thinking young. If you think some of us have not been successful in this, only consider what terrible losses we might have been without our contacts with you.

The Frenchman Pascal once wrote: "All our dignity... consists in thought.... Then let us make it our study to think well for this is the starting point of morals." To think well is indeed the whole of us as well as the starting point of morals." It is to help you think well, about God and your fellow men and yourself, that Alabama College exists. Affectionately,
John Caldwell

To provide better legislation and to give better service was the Student Senate's aim for the year. It helped to realize the first aim by (1) studying continuously all rules and regulations in the Student Handbook in order to weed out those for which there seemed to be no purpose, (2) by studying its own Constitution in an attempt to improve the clarity of its provisions, and (3) by working with the Executive Board in the re-writing of our Student Government Constitution.

In a service capacity, the Student Senate provided a large group of high school seniors with a week end of real fun when the annual House Party was held in March. Its flag committee had the flags displayed correctly at all necessary times throughout the year. Its personal service committee brought happiness to members of students' families by sending flowers and cards. All of its affairs were made known to the students and faculty through the publicity committee.

The Student Government Association, headed by the Executive Board, has done a magnificent job this year. In addition to its usual functions — Orientation, Freshman reception, elections, and College Night — which were handled smoothly and efficiently, the Executive Board, in cooperation with the Senate, completed the new Constitution. This Constitution which provides for executive, judicial, and legislative branches was put into effect after spring elections. It took many hours of work and study to complete our Constitution and it requires the whole-hearted effort and cooperation of each student to make it a success. So pitch in, students, and this year's work will not be wasted.

The Alabamian which appears in the mailbox every two weeks not only keeps the students informed about campus activities but also lets our parents and members of the Alumnae Association know what's going on at Alabama College.

Editor Connally and her efficient staff have done a bang-up job of telling us what happened, why it happened, where it happened, and who was there when it happened.

The continuation of the "They Say" column kept us informed on the students' opinions and the Suggestion Box enabled us to praise or blame the work carried on at the College.

The MONTAGE

From the first meeting in September until the lost package of copy was mailed to Paragon Press the staff of the MONTAGE worked fast and furiously to bring you a friendly picture of life at Alabama College.

This annual owes its being not only to the worked-to-death staff members, encouraging faculty advisors, and professional engravers and printers, but also to each and every student who merely kept her appointment to smile prettily at Mr. Gospar.

Editor Nelson was devil-bent and determined that the 1948 MONTAGE should be out on or before June 1st. With a crow-bar to pry her staff to activity and a battle-axe attitude to spur them on, the Editor kept her nose to the grindstone and the wires to the engravers hot to fulfill her promise to the students.

But alas! Even though all the copy — except, of course, College Night — was in by March 1, May rolled around and the engravers still hadn't delivered the goods. The Editor and Business Manager, fortified by Mr. Fowler, charged up to Birmingham, begged, pleaded and threatened, and the engravers promised to get on the ball and have the plates ready for the printers by June 1. The editor then made plans to spend her honeymoon proofreading so the 1948 MONTAGE could be mailed to you during the summer.

The Editor and staff of the 1948 MONTAGE regret that they were unable to present your book on the campus, but are confident that you and your friends will enjoy the "flashbacks" the MONTAGE will bring you at home.

"GLADISH RADDISH — FOUND AT LAST!"

College NIGHT . . . the

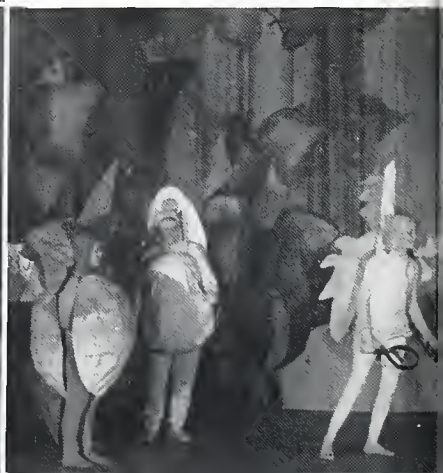

From the very beginning of that month of secrecy and date which is devoted to preparation for College Night, the campus echoed with the Purple's haunting chant: Purples can't be beat — Beat! The writing committee immediately went to work and labored through long nights to produce a stunt that was funny and a drama that was dramatic. The music committee began its battle with words and notes. The art committee sketched and drew til tomatoes, celery stalks, and massive columns began to appear. Then the staging crew set up headquarters in the Scene Shop, took up their hammers, saws and paint brushes, and went to work on the columns and flats. The costume committee, at the same time worked with wire and plastavon to make the Purples look like vegetables, and with cheesecloth and percal to reproduce Biblical costumes.

PURPLES

When College Night rolled around, the Purples proudly presented their dramatization, "Salome," which told the story of how "the daughter of the wicked" found her revenge. With equal pride they also presented the stunt, "Celery Stalks at Midnight," or "Halt! Who Grows There?," a mystery set in the garden patch and based on the rules of Sharecrop Holmes, the great detective.

The Purple Slow song carried the theme of love for one's fellowman. For their pep song, the Purples sang about Albert, a little imp who just could not be bad.

Then came that hushed moment when the Judges announced their decision — a Purple Victory! A record was broken! For the first time in the history of College Night one side had been given the favorable decision for four consecutive College Nights.

College

From the first "Hooray for paper mache!" to the last toasted marshmallow the Golds vibrated with a contagious rejuvenated spirit that shook the rafters of Polmer and stood the 30th Annual College Night audience up on its feet, applauding.

For paper mache was the stunt scenery—stalagmites and a fiery pit — a setting fit for the Devil, because "A Tale or Knot a Toil" told of a cherubim who met a Sora Finn on a lower, much lower level. And as for the toasted morshmallows, well, how else could imps' tails be put to better use?

The story of Aseneth and Joseph of Armothea, "In the Garden" was dramatized poignantly and with depth of feeling. Fired by cruel ambition and a thirsty love for prestige, this story of Aseneth's role in the crucifixion is not widely known.

Set in a terroced garden with an ivied wall, the Gold dramatization was climaxed by the symbolism of the gradual glow from the tomb in the garden in which the body of the Nazarene was placed, and the conversion of Aseneth.

"Could This Man Be The Son of God?"

"Now What In - - - Is This!"

NIGHT . . . the GOLDS

The pep song literally bubbled with joy and was duly dubbed "the happy glad" song by Marianna and Judy.

The "slow" song was based on an alma mater theme—
 " . . . pleasure, friendship . . . college days . . .
 loyalty . . . joy and care . . . Alma Mater . . . our memory . . . "

The Golds thrived on triumphant spirit and the realization of a job well done.

CROOK WEEK

Twos early morning May 5, 1947 when the Seniors made their traditional march on the lowly Juniors chanting their traditional dirge, but what could have been responsible for the Tea taking place in Hanson lobby complete with candles, flowers, hats, gloves, purses, heels, and pajamas, with Miss Kemp pouring tea? The Seniors were greeted with Tea for Two and other appropriate musical renditions and the Juniors were put out no end to have their best efforts ignored, and of course, all that tea wasted.

And such was the beginning of Crook Week in which there were constant battles of wit, imagination, talent, and physical strength of the two classes. The Seniors, after subduing a pirate horde at Crook Convocation, and assigning the truly lovely costumes for the newly christened "Bandicoots," set forth a rugged early week program, including a May Pole Dance; a football game; nightly Moon River programs from Tut terrace; a Hog Calling Contest; a musicale in Palmer; a Jean's Tea hostessed by all the Juniors named Jean; and the Chancey Lectures; in all of which the Juniors' enthusiasm and imagination rivaled that of the Seniors.

Is there any wonder that it was 1:37 p.m. Wednesday before the Crook was found? But it was found and Sue Roberts was the finder. Shrieks of joy echoed from Flower-hill as the school whistle and bell joined in, and after the appropriate ceremony on Tut Balcony another Crook Week blended into the warm, glowing heritage that is Alabama College.

COLLEGE THEATER

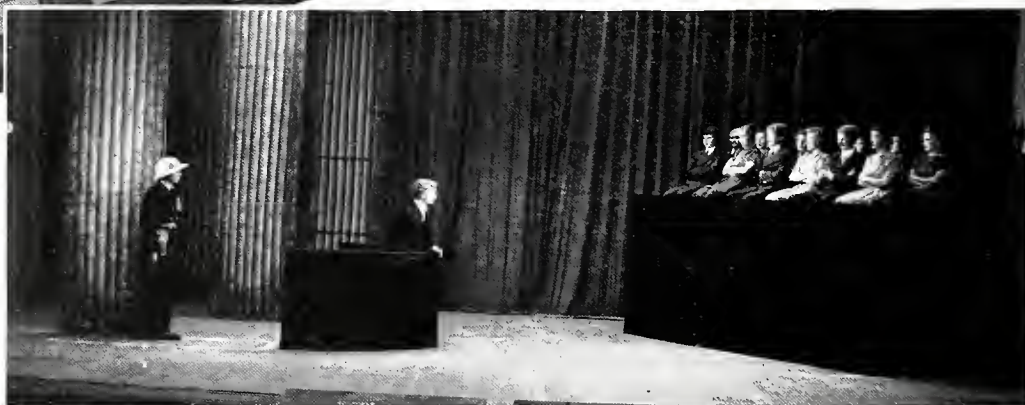

What would Alabama College do without the College Theatre? It gives to the students an opportunity for participating in the phase of dramatic work they like best — acting, lighting, staging, costuming, make-up, and properties. Progressing from a very small beginning in 1929, the College Theatre has accumulated thousands of dollars worth of scenery, costumes, make-up, and modern lighting equipment.

The College Theatre has as its purposes the providing of an opportunity to see masterpieces of dramatic literature, giving Southern writers a hearing, developing in the audience a true appreciation of artistic standards, and providing training for teaching and technical positions in communities and Little Theatres.

The Theatre Council, made up of students who have been active in dramatic work, acts as an advisory board to the director.

The Recreation Association stimulates and fosters the highest type of college spirit through a joyous interest in play.

It provides entertainment and recreation for the seven hundred seventy-nine students here at Alabama College. Constant planning, hard work, and study go together to make this program a success. It fosters mainly intra-mural sports, tournaments, camping parties and week-end entertainments at Bibb Graves Hall.

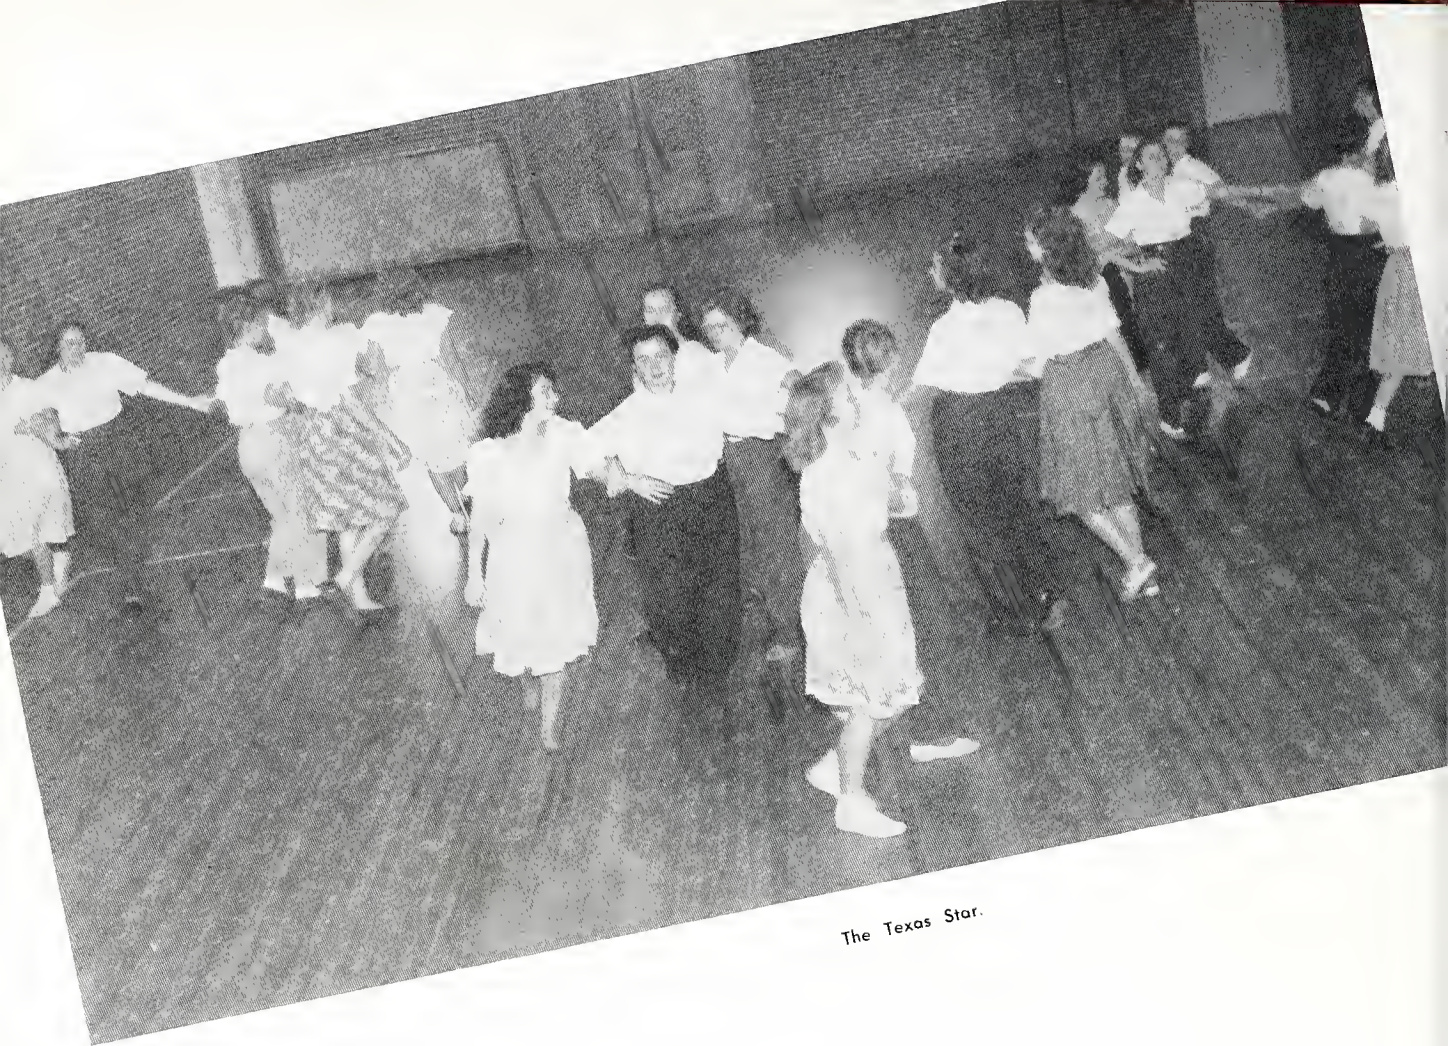

The Association is a major factor in determining the happiness and well-being of students here at Alabama College.

The Texas Star.

Many of the most lasting friendships made on our campus during the past year were made on our sports field. An extensive intramural program was sponsored by the members of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and the Recreation Association including competition in team sports and individual and dual sports between groups of students and between faculty and students.

The Square Dance Club which met one night a week proved to be a popular form of recreation for members of the faculty and student body.

Intro-dormitory tournaments were scheduled in volley ball, hockey, basketball, and soft ball. Large felt pennants were provided for each dormitory and the winner of each respective tournament displayed their pennant on a flag pole on the top of Graves Hall.

During the early Fall, the Recreation Association sponsored a tennis party at which time Dr. Caldwell played in an exhibition match. The badminton tournament was one of the highlights of the winter sports season followed by tournaments in table tennis and archery. Majors in physical education who were nationally rated officials officiated at the various tournaments.

Hiking and week ends at camp headed the recreation list for many students and faculty members of the college community.

Students participate in a program including outdoor cookery, crafts, nature, aquatics, safety, selection and maintenance of camp sites, facilities, program planning, and organization and administration.

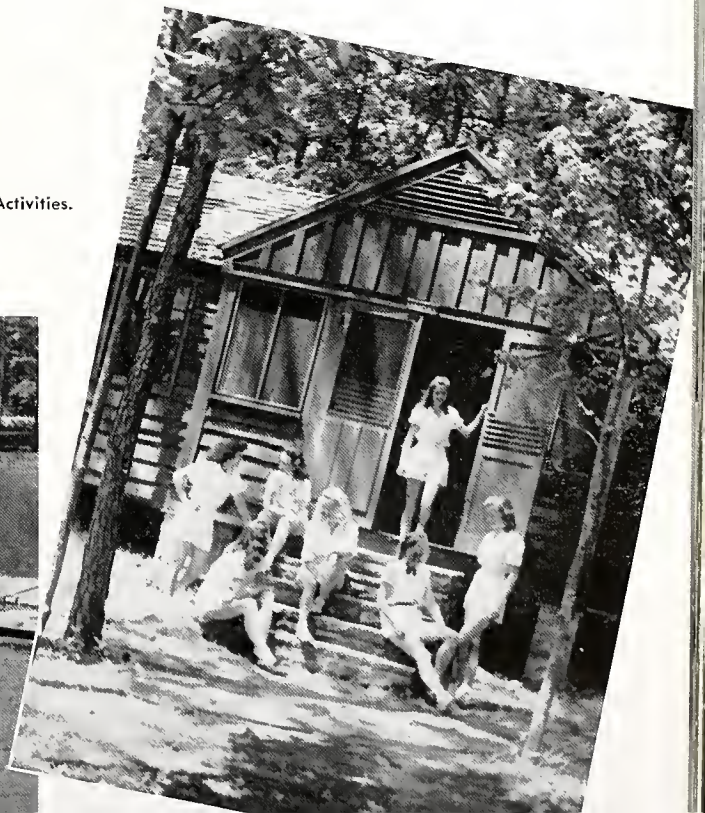

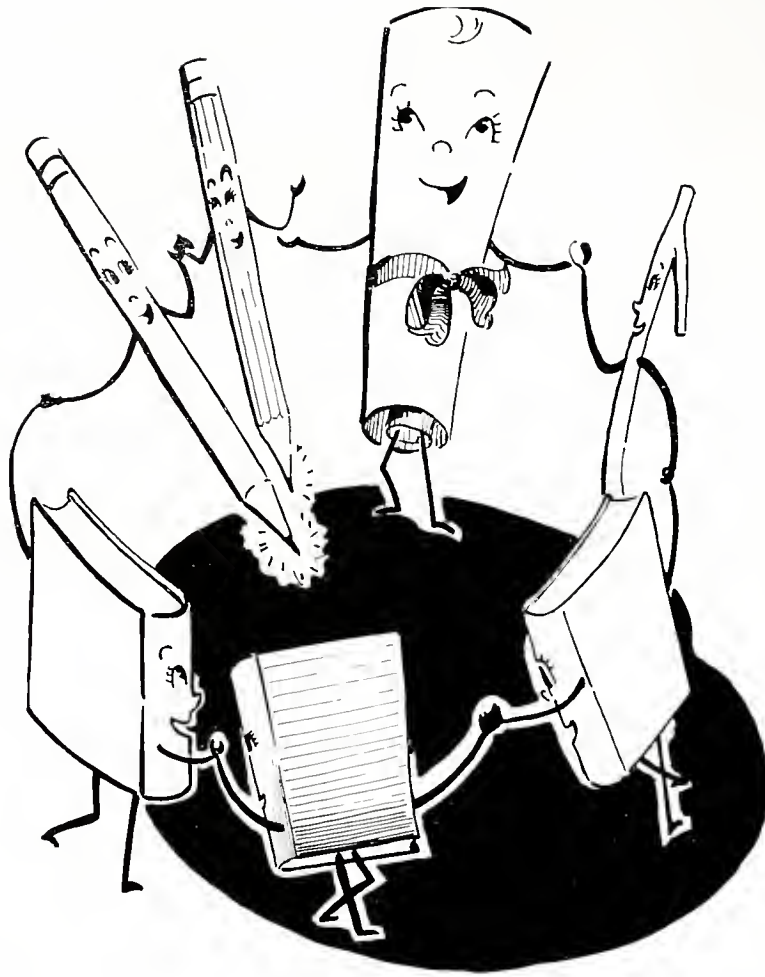

Outdoor Cooking Is Enjoyed By All Students.

Some of the activities are taught at Oak Mountain State Park to supplement the courses taught on the campus and at the A. C. Camp. With a "have you studied?" our friendly conversation comes around to the subject of CLASSES

C L A S S E S

Before the Classes Start...

The SENIOR CLASS

When the Senior Class of 1948 first came to Alabama College the world was in the midst of war. But theirs was a class with "spunk and spirit" from the beginning and courageously they braved freshman days with a polite, friendly smile — that is, until they learned the ropes in a week or so, and from then on there was no stopping them.

A year later, the war was over, they found that living in Ramsey and being awakened every morning to the soft, sweet blast of the laundry whistle produced "battle fatigue." Soon, with the help of midnight snacks, late studying, or other intangible things, they found they could sleep through anything.

As juniors they become more solicitous to the general welfare of the college, especially the seniors. In a very touching and friendly gesture they relieved the seniors of the crook, returning it just in time for the Fiftieth Anniversary Pageant. During the Senior Bonquet, instead of tearing up Tut they tidied up and left some neighborly advice about cleaning up more often.

One morning in May, at four A. M., the juniors—soon to be bandicoots acted the part of the cordial hostess and served coffee in Hanson lobby to the nocturnal seniors, but none of the seniors were thirsty.

Seniors now, they've come a long way from the timid little freshmen. Some might call them dignified, but underneath they'll always carry with them the frolicing, friendly spirit prevalent at A. C., and their particular class.

Heavy over Hanson Hall hung the huge cloud of impending doom—Crook Week, and throughout the year 120 Juniors thought of nothing else. Well, maybe a few thoughts were given to the extremely successful Junior Play, Joan of Lorraine, to the idea of taking up residence in the library on account of Political Science, and to the Junior Prom in February. By the time Crook Week came, they had almost achieved the long-awaited title of Seniors. After Crook Week, life took on a rosier hue, and the Juniors were eager for “next year” because then they would be “The Seniors.”

The SOPHOMORE

OFFICERS

GLADYS RANKIN	President
DOROTHY WESLEY	Vice-President
TOMMIE MOODY	Secretary
NORMA BRUCE	Treasurer

Now that their Freshman year is safely behind them (/), the class of 1950 is breathing sighs, "Ah, this is the life—being a Soph!"

Well, we must say that these sagacious, sesquiped alien, saltant, scholarly, sensational sophomores certainly do give the impression of being "glad to be here" with their friendly and enthusiastic greetings 'cross campus.

This class of ambitious souls is much too large for Ramsey Dormitory, so they are living in both Main and Ramsey (or dividing their time equally between the two!)

In their Freshman year, the class of 1950 was associated with such words as energetic, ambitious, and good-looking, and the way things look now, 'pears as how these girls intend to carry their good names right on through to their senior year.

Saludas Sophomores!

The FRESHMAN CLASS

On that fateful Sunday in September the class of 1951, the freshman class, thronged onto the campus. Soon they were rushed into a whirlwind of tests, seemingly endless lines, and equally endless number of convocations and assemblies, and entertainment of all kinds.

In the ensuing weeks the upperclassmen sat back to see what this class had in the way of talent and initiative. The Freshmen soon set the pace by making all preparations for the annual Hallowe'en Party, which showed they had originality and ability. Next they presented a hilarious play, "The Emperor's New Clothes," and proved their dramatic ability.

After they had survived their first semester exams came that month of working, waiting, and hoping which goes into the making of College Night. The Freshmen were quick to catch the spirit and used an unprecedented amount of purple and gold crepe paper to "show their colors." They were quick to pitch in and learn the intricacies of making costumes, the hard work involved in staging, and the important feeling lugging cables and spotlights for the lighting crew.

Then came spring elections and the Freshmen, now wise to the ways of the world and Alabama College, woke up to the fact that soon they would be sophomores and could look forward to telling next year's Freshman class about College Night, Exam Week, and the strawberries the Freshmen have to pick.

Beauty SELECTORS

On October 18, 1947, at the annual Elite Night Judges Harry F. Lowe, Auburn; Richard Zoellner, University; and Joe W. Clancy, Birmingham, had the difficult task of choosing six beauties and eight favorites from forty candidates selected by the four classes.

Simplicity was the keynote of this Elite Night, sponsored and produced by the staff of the MONTAGE. Into the dimmed auditorium paced two girls in white gossamer gowns holding lighted candles. In the hushed eddy of organ music they walked out on the stage and proceeded to light the candles in the tiered condelabras, grouped with baskets of white gladioli before a black backdrop.

Such was the beginning of another Elite Night in which the beauties and Elite were selected from the student body.

ELITE NIGHT

As the Beauties were being chosen by the judges, the fate of the candidates for the Elite of the senior class was being decided by the ballots marked in the auditorium by student body members.

The Elite are those seniors who are chosen by the students of Alabama College as being the most representative and most outstanding in their particular fields. Candidates are nominated by petition from the senior class and are voted on by all members of the student body.

Membership in Zeta Phi Eta, a national professional speech arts fraternity for women, is the ambition of every speech major of the college.

This year "Zeta Sisters" sponsored a Cameo Tea for all speech majors and a weekly story-telling program, "Long Ago and Far Away," over radio station WAPI. As a money-making project they sold sandwiches once a week in the dormitories. One of the members was elected to attend the national convention to be held in Seattle in July.

will Endure

Long after war has ceased they will stand as beacons to the American Way . . . to greater achievement in religion, arts, science, research, and industry. The way is not easy. It is narrow. It is sometimes rough. Other paths beckon alluringly, as seeming short cuts. But in mankind's halting progress through the ages many paths have been explored before. If now in uncertainty we change paths we will slow up progress and confuse those whose eyes are on us. By further smoothing of the proved paths we can continue to inspire earnest men everywhere to follow the way that already has led one nation so far toward the better and happier life for all.
